Seat Development

These are early development sketches of the SAE seat design. There were numerous calculations carried out and measurements taken from the chassis which ensured that the final product would allow room for helmets, fuel tanks and a series of other elements which were involved.